The Fiction of Alice Munro Brad Hooper, 2008-06-30 As a short story writer Alice Munro has achieved high critical and popular regard in both her native Canada and in the United States Indeed Munro has been adopted by the entire English speaking world as one of its own and her work has received many awards and honors In the U S she is roundly regarded as one of the best if not the best contemporary writers of the short story and one of the greatest living fiction writers Here Brad Hooper takes readers through her fiction work by work discussing the themes forms techniques and styles she employs to make her work come alive Munro has founded her own brand of the short story longer than traditionally practiced in the short story form and encompassing broader time frames Her stories are primarily character studies that explore the impact of physical and mental isolation in adolescence middle age and into elder years Hooper traces Munro s evolving definition of the short story form and surveys the fiction in an effort to elucidate the works for newcomers and enthusiasts alike

Property Rights in Outer Space Matthew Johnson, 2024-05-28 This book explores the role of private mining rights in the utopian imaginary of space colonisation It presents a transdisciplinary account of the new and evolving legislative frameworks that have been established in anticipation of commercial exploitation of the mineral resources of the off world frontier Written in an engaging style the book investigates a novel case study in the history of capitalism and the commons the emergence of a nascent space mining industry undergirded by a contentious legislative framework In 2015 the US passed laws that would recognise the claims of US corporations to own and sell space resources This unilateral act of pre-emptive law making would appear to contravene the terms of the UN Outer Space Treaty 1967 which declared that the exploration and use of outer space should be for the benefit of all mankind and not subject to national appropriation Using this central dynamic between privately held mining rights and outer space as a global commons Matthew Johnson constructs an historical sociology of space mining from the deep historical roots of common and private property to the contemporary networks of neoliberalism that have engaged with the commercialisation of space activity The anticipatory expansion of private property claims beyond the Earth both resonates with and problematises the terrain of political history such as the tensions between states and markets public law and private power the commons and exclusive property The emerging cosmopolitics of off world private property mirrors and is often explicitly embedded within neoliberal geopolitics prompting urgent questions about how we can reaffirm principles of democracy and common heritage in the international laws of Earth and space This book is compelling reading for anyone interested in the social study of space law economics technology politics and property rights
