Nice New Commitment In The Visual Arts:

Art And The Committed Eye Richard Leppert, 2019-04-05 In Art and the Committed Eye Richard Leppert examines Western European and American art from the fifteenth to the twentieth century. He studies the complex relation between the look of images and the variety of social and cultural uses to which they are put and demonstrates that the meaning of any image is significantly determined by its function which changes over time. In particular, he emphasizes the ways in which visual culture is called on to mediate social differences defined by gender, class, and race. In Leppert addresses the nature and task of representation, discussing how meaning accrues to images and what role vision and visibility play in the history of modernity. Here he explains imagery's power to attract our gaze by triggering desire and focuses on the long history of the use of representation to enact a deception, whether in painting or advertising. Leppert explores art's relation to the material world, to the ways in which images mark our various physical and psychic ties to objects. The author analyzes still life paintings whose subject matter is both extraordinarily diverse and deeply paradoxical, from flower bouquets to grotesque formal arrangements of human body parts. Leppert demonstrates that even in innocent still lifes, formal design and technical execution are imbued with cultural conflict and social power is devoted to the representation of the human body as subject to obsessive gazing and as an object of display, spectacle, and transgression. The variety of body representation is enormous, pleased or tortured, gorgeous or monstrous, modest or lascivious, powerful or weak, in the bloom of life or under the anatomist's knife, clothed or naked. But it is the sexual body, Leppert shows, that has provided the West with its richest, most complex, contradictory, conflicted, and paradoxical accounts of human identity in relation to social ideals.

Imaginary Economics Olav Velthuis, 2005 A British artist who destroys all of his possessions, a Dutch artist's initiative that provides analyses of business cultures, an American who draws his own money and then manages to spend it. The age of thinking that art has nothing to do with the economy is clearly over. Imaginary Economics has to do with artists who analyze and parody economic processes and phenomena in their work. Aside from well-known figures from twentieth-century art such as Marcel Duchamp, Yves Klein, Marcel Broodthaers, and Joseph Beuys, a great many contemporary artists, including Jeff Koons, Santiago Sierra, Rob Scholte, Michael Landy, and Matthieu Laurette, appear to be interested in the economy as well. Economically inspired art can evidently be seen as a refreshing source of knowledge on our market economy. From an unorthodox vantage point, Olav Velthuis, economics editor of de Volkskrant, sheds new light on the world of big money.
