

Radiography Positioning Guide

Brought to you by IDEXX Diagnostic Imaging and IDEXX Telemedicine Consultants

Tips

- Take at least two views of each anatomic region—remember, you're capturing a three-dimensional object.
- Center the x-ray beam directly over the area of interest.
- Visualize how the image would look on a monitor. Move the patient and position the area of interest along the long axis of your collimated field, rather than rotating the extremity.

- Collimate to the area of interest to reduce scatter radiation and improve image quality.
- Be safe—always use protective lead gloves, aprons, and thyroid shields to protect yourself from scatter radiation, stay as far away as possible from the primary x-ray beam, and use positioning devices.
- Use a well-defined system of exposure determination, such as a technique chart based on published exposure values, for accurate, repeatable, and optimal exposures. Include lateral markers.

Thorax

Lateral thorax

Position animal in lateral recumbency. Rotate thorax to maximize lateral heart border. Tilt the chest parallel to the x-ray beam. Collimate to top of last rib. Place extremities of paw over chest.

Abdomen

Lateral abdomen

Position animal as for the lateral thorax, but center on middle of last rib. Exception: For cats and brachycephals, last 2 ribs past last rib.

Key

- Anesthesia required
- Anesthesia or heavy sedation suggested
