Creep and Long-Term Strength of Metals A. M. Lokoshchenko, 2017-12-14 Creep and Creep Rupture of Metals is devoted to the fundamental description of the phenomenon of creep which occurs widely in high temperature deformation of metals Special attention is paid to the analysis of long term strength which characterizes the stress at which the metal does not fail after a predetermined time The author details experimental and theoretical results obtained by Soviet and Russian scientists that are absent in currently available publications and demonstrates analytical methods and approaches to achieve long term strength in Metals Physico-Mathematical Theory of High Irreversible Strains in Metals V.M. Greshnov, 2019-02-06

Presents a new physical and mathematical theory of irreversible deformations and ductile fracture of metals that acknowledges the continuous change in the structure of materials during deformation and the accumulation of deformation damage Plastic deformation viscous destruction evolution of structure creep processes and long term strength of metals and stress relaxation are described in the framework of a unified approach and model The author then expands this into a mathematical model for determining the mechanical characteristics of quasi samples of standard mechanical properties in deformed semi finished products Nuclear Science Abstracts ,1973 New Directions in the Soviet Economy United
