Plutonium Power And Politics:

Plutonium, Power, and Politics Gene I. Rochlin, 2024-06-14 In the early 1970s the major industrial states were preparing to shift to nuclear fission as their principal source of electrical power But that change has not occurred In part this is due to a growing public recognition that techniques and institutions for management of spent nuclear fuel separated plutonium and long lived radioactive wastes are not yet fully developed The consequent pressures for resolution have spurred a series of often ill defined and sometimes contradictory attempts to promote international cooperation and control of hazardous activities How are these varied suggestions to be compared and evaluated By what criteria can plans be selected that are likely to be both effective and negotiable In this study Gene I Rochlin physicist and social scientist explores the technical political and institutional aspects of international nuclear export and fuel cycle policies He categorizes existing proposals and suggests way to develop new ones that better promote both national and international goals Dr Rochlin argues neither for nor against the use of nuclear power or plutonium fuels Instead he addresses the question of how international arrangements could be reached that might jointly satisfy the objective of the several key nations yet not be too difficult to negotiate He concludes that a major fault has been the tendency to improvise arrangements for specific technical or industrial operations As a result overall social and political goals have become the bargaining points for compromise Yet attempts to simultaneously resolve all problems are unlikely to prove fruitful Dr Rochlin suggests instead the formation of institutions organized around more limited social political and technical objectives even at the expense of excluding some nations or omitting some aspects of the nuclear fuel cycle Only by so doing he argues can immediate agreements be reached that preserve the potential for more comprehensive future arrangements without sacrificing industrial environmental or nonproliferation goals This important book will be of interest to scientists social scientists government officials and others concerned with the problems of plutonium management and nuclear wastes This title is part of UC Press s Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press s mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1979

Plutonium, power, and politics : international arrangements for disposition of spent nuclear fuel Gene I. Rochlin, 1969 Nuclear Politics James M. Jasper, 2014-07-14 Why did nuclear energy policies in France Sweden and the United States very similar at the time of the oil crisis of 1973 and 1974 diverge so greatly in the following years In answering this question James Jasper challenges one of the most popular trends in political analysis explanations relying exclusively on political and economic structures to account for public policies Jasper proposes a new cultural and state centered approach one heeding not only structural factors but cultural meanings individual biographies and elite discretion Surveying the period from the successful commercialization of light water reactor technology in the early 1960s to the present he explains the events that occurred after 1973 France built even more reactors than it needed the United States canceled most reactor orders and Sweden completed planned nuclear plants but decided to phase out nuclear energy by 2010 This work is based on one hundred interviews with managers policymakers and activists in the three countries In addition to providing a unique theoretical perspective it broadens our understanding of nuclear policy by looking at three countries in depth and over a long historical span Originally published in 1990 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

Wind Power Politics and Policy Scott Victor Valentine, 2014-10-30 The wind power development policy community faces a conundrum On the one hand as the most commercially viable form of utility scale renewable energy the wind power industry has experienced in excess of ten fold growth in total installed capacity over the past decade On the other hand installed wind power capacity still accounts for less than 2% of global electricity generation capacity despite the prevalence of studies indicating that in certain situations wind power can be a cheaper form of electricity than most fossil fuel alternatives Accordingly the most puzzling aspect of wind power development policy can be summed up in the following manner given the global imperative to facilitate an expedient transition away from CO2 intensive energy technologies and the commercial viability of wind power what is stopping the wind power industry from capturing higher market shares around the world In Wind Power Politics and Policy Scott Valentine examines this question from two angles First it presents an analysis of social technical economic and political STEP barriers which research shows tends to stymie wind power development Case studies which examine phlegmatic wind power development in Japan Taiwan Australia and Canada are presented in order to demonstrate to the reader how these barriers manifest themselves in practice Second the book presents an analysis of STEP catalysts which have been linked to successful growth of wind power capacity in select nations Four more case studies that examine the successful development of wind power in Denmark Germany the USA and China are put forth as practical examples of how supportive factors conflate to produce conditions that are conducive to growth of wind power markets By examining its impediments and catalysts the book will provide policymakers with insight into the types of factors that must be effectively managed in order to maximize wind power development

Industrial Uses of Atomic Energy in the Next Ten Years, 1952 Plutonium Frank von Hippel, Masafumi Takubo, Jungmin Kang, 2019-12-23 This book provides a readable and thought provoking analysis of the issues surrounding nuclear fuel reprocessing and fast neutron reactors including discussion of resources economics radiological risk and resistance to nuclear proliferation It describes the history and science behind reprocessing and gives an overview of the status of reprocessing programmes around the world It concludes that such programs should be discontinued While nuclear power is seen by many as the only realistic solution to the carbon emission problem some national nuclear establishments have been pursuing development and deployment of sodium cooled plutonium breeder reactors and plutonium recycling Its proponents argue that this system would offer significant advantages relative to current light water reactor technology in terms of greater uranium utilization efficiency and that separating out the long lived plutonium and other transuranics from spent fuel and fissioning them in fast reactors would greatly reduce the duration of the toxicity of radioactive waste However the history of efforts to deploy this system commercially in a number of countries over the last six decades has been one of economic and technical failure and in some cases was used to mask clandestine nuclear weapon development programs Covering topics of significant public interest including nuclear safety fuel storage environmental impact and the spectre of nuclear terrorism this book presents a comprehensive analysis of the issue for nuclear engineers policy analysts government officials and the general public Frank von Hippel Jungmin Kang and Masafumi Takubo three internationally renowned nuclear experts have done a valuable service to the global community in putting together this book which both historically and comprehensively covers the plutonium age as we know it today They articulate in a succinct and clear manner their views on the dangers of a plutonium economy and advocate a ban on the separation of plutonium for use in the civilian fuel cycle in view of the high proliferation and nuclear security risks and lack of economic justification Mohamed ElBaradei Director General International Atomic Energy Agency 1997 2009 Nobel Peace Prize 2005 The 1960s dream of a plutonium economy has not delivered abundant low cost energy but instead has left the world a radioactive legacy of nuclear weapons proliferation and the real potential for nuclear terrorism Kang Takubo and von Hippel explain with power and clarity what can be done to reduce these dangers The governments of the remaining countries whose nuclear research and development establishments are still pursuing the plutonium dream should pay attention Senator Edward Markey a leader in the US nuclear disarmament movement as a member of Congress since 1976 The authors have done an invaluable service by putting together in one place the most coherent analysis of the risks associated with plutonium and the most compelling argument for ending the practice of separating plutonium from spent fuel for any purpose They have given us an easily accessible history of the evolution of thinking about the nuclear fuel cycle the current realities of nuclear power around the world and arguably most important a clear alternative path to deal with the spent fuel arising from nuclear reactors for decades to centuries to come Robert Gallucci Chief US negotiator with North Korea 1994 Dean Georgetown University School of Foreign Service 1996 2009 President MacArthur Foundation 2009 2014 Congressional Record United States.
