Marital Interaction Analysis And Modification:

Marital Interaction Kurt Hahlweg, Neil S. Jacobson, 1984 Perspectives on Marital Interaction Patricia Noller, Mary Anne Fitzpatrick, 1988 This book explores the subject of marital interaction It brings together the work of international scholars and is divided into four sections communication as a means by which couples manage everyday life communication as a means of expression of emotion communication and problem solving coping with relationships outside marriage The text is interdisciplinary and looks at the issue from various angles social psychology clinical psychology and communications Particular attention is paid to the emergence of sex differences in interaction patterns and the experience of counselling plays an important part

International Handbook of Behavior Modification and Therapy Alan S. Bellack, Michel Hersen, Alan E. Kazdin, 2012-12-06 It is particularly gratifying to prepare a second edition of a book because there is the necessary implication that the first edition was well received Moreover now an opportunity is provided to correct the problems or limitations that existed in the first edition as well as to address recent developments in the field Thus we are grateful to our friends colleagues and students as well as to the reviewers who have expressed their approval of the first edition and who have given us valuable input on how the revision could best be structured Perhaps the first thing that the reader will notice about the second edition is that it is more extensive than the first The volume currently has 41 chapters in contrast to the 31 chapters that comprised the earlier version Chapters 3 9 29 and 30 of the first edition either have been dropped or were combined whereas 14 new chapters have been added In effect we are gratified in being able to reflect the continued growth of behavior therapy in the 1980s Behavior therapists have addressed an ever increasing number of disorders and behavioral dysfunctions in an increasing range of populations The most notable advances are taking place in such areas as cognitive approaches geriatrics and behavioral medicine and also in the treatment of childhood disorders

Eating Disorders and Marital Relationships Jan Norre, Stephan Van den Broucke, Walter Vandereycken, 2006-04-19 Anorexia and bulimia are on the increase in the Western world and the disease is now recognised to no longer be only a problem for teenage girls but older women as well Most older women either do now or did previously live with a partner and much attention has been paid to these relationships in devising therapeutic regimes Eating Disorders and Marital Relationships takes a critical look at the evidence behind the assumption of psychiatric illness in the patients and their partners and comes up with some surprising results Van den Broucke Vandereycken and Norre carefully describe both the theoretical and practical implications of their work making this book important reading for both practitioner and researcher

Handbook of Behavioural Family Therapy Ian Falloon, 2015-07-30 First published in 1988 behavioural family therapists worked in an area that had greatly changed since its inception over 20 years before Growing out of the pioneering work of Gerald Patterson Robert Paul Liberman and Richard Stuart whose backgrounds vary from psychology to psychiatry to social work behavioural family therapy BFT had evolved to encompass systems theory considerations of the therapeutic alliance as well as approaches to accounting for and restructuring family members subjective experiences through cognitive strategies As BFT had not been the brain child of any one charismatic innovator but rather of a wide array of clinicians and researchers developing and rigorously testing hypotheses it is fitting that this much needed summation of the field was a collaborative product of an array of well established practitioners of the time They discuss in Part 1 of the book the theoretical parameters of BFT focusing on modular behavioural strategies the indications for therapy assessment of family problems pertinent issues arising in clinical practice and approaches to the problem of resistance to change Contributors to Part 2 then apply theory to such clinical situations as parent training and helping families cope with patients suffering from developmental disabilities alcoholism schizophrenia senile dementia as well as anxiety obsessive compulsive and depressive disorders Specific attention is also given to acute inpatient and primary health care settings While BFT had already proved quite effective in treating a great number of family problems it was only in its infancy at the time of writing As Falloon says in his overview all exponents of the method are constantly involved with the process of refinement each clinician is a researcher each family member is a research subject and each researcher is contributing to clinical advancement This openness in combination with a willingness to modify sacred tenets of behaviourism while adapting proven techniques from other family therapies made this title a landmark in its field As such it was not only of interest to all clinicians and researchers with a behavioural slant but also to all family therapists who wished to challenge themselves to develop an integrative approach

Conflict in Personal Relationships Dudley D. Cahn, 2013-12-16 In keeping with a broad conception of interpersonal conflict this book is organized into two parts The first focuses on conflict on different types of couple relationships homosexual cross cultural dating but violent engaged and married and group relationships student peers parents and their young children and adult children and their aging parents The chapters not only review past research on conflict in some relationships but also take a significant step forward in introducing a variety of other relationship types for future research on conflict These chapters also offer evidence that conflict is experienced differently in different types of interpersonal relationships The second part of this book describes basic underlying principles and programs for dealing with interpersonal conflicts Chapters in this section discuss patterns of argument in everyday life issues associated with competence in interpersonal conflict and mediation as a form of intervention for resolution
