Personality as an Affect-processing System Jack Block, 2002-02-01 At least since Hippocrates human beings have been trying to describe and analyze the behavioral and cognitive consistencies now referred to as personality And in recent decades no less than in the preceding centuries they have generated a bewildering variety of construals and constructs In this landmark book Jack Block who has spent more than 50 years studying the many facets of personality takes a long look at current debates and finds common ground on which to construct an integrative model Perceiving more congruence among disparate formulations than has hitherto been appreciated he elaborates his vision of personality as an adaptive system that enables the individual to maintain equilibrium in an environment that is both threatening and engaging Taking in and organizing information and maintaining nondisruptive levels of anxiety while responding to outer and inner demands are the tasks of this system which consists of a perceptual apparatus and a control apparatus operating in delicate balance After presenting his model of personality Block discusses its intellectual history and its connections to major current alternatives He lays out some implications for practitioners confronted by dysfunction Finally he traces the developmental origins of personality Provocative innovative and analytical Personality as an Affect Processing System Toward an Integrative Theory points to new directions for all those who seek to understand human psychological functioning

The Oxford Handbook of Identity Development Kate C. McLean, Moin U. Paradigms in Theory Construction Luciano L'Abate,2011-12-01 Within the field of psychology there is a proliferation of paradigms theories models and dimensions without an underlying conceptual framework or theory This conclusion has been reached by representatives of many different psychological specialties In response to this inconsistency this book presents a hierarchical framework about important theoretical issues that are present in psychological thinking These issues concern definitions of three major theoretical concepts in theory and practice a paradigms b theories and c models It focuses on defining comparing and contrasting these three conceptual terms This framework clarifies differences among paradigms theories and models terms which have become increasingly confused in the psychological literature Paradigms are usually confused with theories or with models while theories are confused with models Examples of misuses of these terms suggest the need for a hierarchical structure that views paradigms as conceptual constructions overseeing a variety of psychological theories and verifiable models
