perspective on the public sector that presents a concise and comprehensive analysis of exactly what it is and how it operates. Governments in any society deliver a large number of services and goods to their populations. To get the job done they need public management in order to steer resources, employees, money, and laws into policy outputs and outcomes. In well-ordered societies, the teams who work for the state work under a rule of law framework known as public administration. This book covers the key issues of the principal-agent framework and the public sector: public principals and their agents, the economic reasons of government, public organization, incentives, and rationality in government, the essence of public administration, legality, and the rule of law, public policy criteria, the Cambridge and Chicago positions, public teams and private teams, public firms, public insurance, public management, policy, Public Administration, Public Management. Public Administration and Expertise in Democratic Governments Susan Rose-Ackerman, 2024-05-23. This collection deals with challenges confronting public law and public administration in twenty-first century democracies across the world. It draws together contributions from leading scholars examining cutting-edge topics and projecting the scholarship forward. It emphasizes the importance both of justifying executive policymaking to citizens and of drawing on bureaucratic expertise and professional competence. Contributors examine the role of courts and argue for new forms of public participation that can incorporate democratic values into executive branch policymaking. Finally, the work confronts problems in the administration of the criminal law that are generating increased public concern. Building on Rose-Ackerman's scholarship, writers compare the American experience with contemporary developments in other leading democracies, in particular Germany, France, the EU, Canada, and Latin America. The work will be an invaluable resource for academics, researchers, and policymakers working in the areas of Administrative Law, Public Law, and Political Science.
