William Bittle Wells, Lute Pease

Mottled Lizard:

The Mottled Lizard Elspeth Huxley, 1962 Colonial Strangers Phyllis Lassner, 2004 Lassner's analysis reveals how writers such as Muriel Spark, Olivia Manning, Rumer Godden, Phyllis Bottome, Elspeth Huxley, and Zadie Smith insist that World War II is critical to understanding how and why the British Empire had to end Transgressing Boundaries. Elizabeth F. Oldfield, 2013 Fictions written between 1939 and 2005 by indigenous and white post-colonial women writers emerging from an African-European cultural experience form the focus of this study. Their voyages into the European diasporic space in Africa are important for conveying how African women's literature is situated in relation to colonialism. Notwithstanding the centrality of African literature in the new postcolonial literatures in English, the accomplishments of the indigenous writer Grace Ogot have been eclipsed by the critical attention given to her male counterparts, while Elspeth Huxley, Barbara Kimenye, and Marjorie Oludhe MacGoye, who are of Western cultural provenance but adopt an African perspective, are not accommodated by the genre of expatriate literature. The present study of both indigenous and white post-colonial women's narratives that are common to both categories fills this gap. Focused on the representation of gender, identity, culture, and the Other, the texts selected are set in Kenya and Uganda, and a main concern is with the extent to which they are influenced by setting and intercultural influences. The African woman's creation of textuality is at once the expression of female individualities and a transgression of boundaries. The particular category of fiction for children, as written by Kimenye and MacGoye, reveals the configuration of a voice and identity for the female Other and writer, which enables a subversive renegotiation of identity in the face of patriarchal traditions Shoe and Leather Reporter, 1930
