The First Year Matters Carol Pelletier Radford, 2009 This book is designed for new teachers to serve as a documentation and reflection of their first year of teaching The idea for the book came from teacher mentors using the author s book Mentoring in Action The First Year Matters Being Mentored In Action provides new teachers with a practical guide to use throughout their mentoring experience as well as for self reflection Many new teachers become overwhelmed in their first year of teaching and leave the profession Many are so busy trying to meet all of the criteria of the assessments based curriculum that often the most obvious skills are overlooked for discussion with their mentor Often the mentor and the teacher spend their meetings discussing one student or situation This book outlines the school year month by month so curriculum based topics can be discussed in a more systematic way The author encourages the new teacher to become a listener and filter all of the information coming at them as a new teacher They can t do everything This book will help them use the mentoring process as a way to get the most out of their first year of teaching without getting discouraged The book can be used with small groups of new teachers as well as individually with a teacher mentor but can also serve as a guide to enrich the quality of their reflections as a tool to document the school year for licensing purposes as well as serve as a ready reference for the second year of teaching

Mentor-as-Praxis Lily Orland-Barak,2010-03-10 Lily Orland Barak offers us a breathtaking work of science fiction Or perhaps I should say science and fiction The science side of the equation employs sophisticated technique for observing and describing interpersonal and intrapersonal dynamics among professionals in education Both dramatic and seemingly ordinary episodes in the lives of teachers in relational tension with one another are analyzed with scientific care precision and insight The scientific study of mentoring is like the scientific study of soap bubbles their formation growth and sudden exit from the visible world with a nearly soundless pop Scientific and intellectual tools can be used to describe and predict the behavior of soap bubbles to study their colors shapes surface tension and tiny mass The same is true of the study of mentoring But in both cases the greatest care must be taken to avoid popping the almost magically elegant form to avoid destroying the delicate relationship by rushing in by heavy attempts at control or by premature dissection or even by paying attention too intensely to a private personal relationship Mentoring is best studied by being still by listening with authentic interest and by using our peripheral vision The science and the scientist have done their best work here The fiction side of this new book gives life to telling examples of mentoring in action
