Restructuring The Gatt System:

Restructuring the Gatt John H. Jackson, 1990 The multilateral trading system based on the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade GATT is being eroded by a shift to bilateralism surging protectionism and flouting of its rules by the major trading countries The inclusion of the complex issues of services intellectual property and investment in the Uruguay Round has only increased the strain on the GATT s structure Reform and strengthening of the GATT system can no longer be delayed Jackson argues that part of the problem lies in the defective constitutional nature of the GATT itself He examines the institutional and constitutional changes the GATT would need in order to contain protectionist pressure and respond to the new issues in the evolving international economy Jackson outlines the provisions of a new charter that would strengthen the foundations of the system His proposed reform challenges policymakers and practitioners to think beyond the modest objectives of the Uruguay Round Unedited summary from book cover

From Bilateralism to Community Interest Ulrich Fastenrath,2011 This festschrift dedicated to Judge Bruno Simma traces the development of international law from regulating bilateral state to state relationships towards strengthening the entire international community by protecting human security the global environment and human rights It provides both theoretical and practical insights into these sometimes conflicting goals their basis in international law and the role played by international institutions charged with upholding these values and interests The work thus examines the mechanism by which international law contributes to the realization not only of individual State interests but the interests of the international community as a whole From this vantage point it looks at the various functions that international law fulfills in the international community from law making and institution building towards adjudication and the securing of human rights Taken together the contributions to this book paints a detailed but nevertheless comprehensive picture of the realization of community interest in contemporary international law As professor and judge Bruno Simma has contributed to all of these tasks providing ground breaking theoretical work serving in the International Law Commission and in the Committee for Economic Social and Cultural Rights and finally as a judge at the International Court of Justice in The Hague The three introductory chapters express this unity of life and work

WTO Dispute Settlements in East Asia Dukgeun Ahn,2003 East Asian countries have become much more active in utilizing the WTO dispute settlement system to assert their legal rights The dispute settlement experience so far for these countries has shown strong tendency of domestic governments to defend economic interest of major industries Their primary counterparts in trade disputes are still major developed countries such as the United States and the European Communities Thailand is in some sense peculiar in that it brought disproportionately many complaints to the WTO dispute settlement system while it was hardly challenged by other Members In contrast to the GATT era Korea has become legally very aggressive under the WTO system It is also noted that Japan has been rarely challenged since October 1998 Except for China most East Asian countries lack the national procedure to link private economic interests to the WTO dispute settlement procedures NBER website
