Narratives of Catastrophe Nasrin Qader, 2009-08-25 Narratives of Catastrophe tells the story of the relationship between catastrophe in the senses of down turn and break and narration as recounting in the senses suggested by the French term recit in selected texts by three leading writers from Africa Qader's book begins by exploring the political implications of narrating catastrophic historical events Through careful readings of singular literary texts on the genocide in Rwanda and on Tazmamart a secret prison in Morocco under the reign of Hassan II Qader shows how historical catastrophes enter language and how this language is marked by the catastrophe it recounts Not satisfied with the extra literary characterizations of catastrophe in terms of numbers laws and naming she investigates the catastrophic in catastrophe arguing that catastrophe is always an effect of language and thought The recit becomes a privileged site because the difficulties of thinking and speaking about catastrophe unfold through the very movements of storytelling This book intervenes in important ways in the current scholarship in the field of African literatures It shows the contributions of African literatures in elucidating theoretical problems for literary studies in general such as storytelling's relationship to temporality subjectivity and thought Moreover it addresses the issue of storytelling which is of central concern in the context of African literatures but still remains limited mostly to the distinction between the oral and the written The notion of recit breaks with this duality by foregrounding the inaugural temporality of telling and of writing as repetition The final chapters examine catastrophic turns within the philosophical traditions of the West and in Islamic thought highlighting their interconnections and differences

Body in Arabic Love Poetry Jokha Alharthi, 2021-04-28 Jokha Alharthi re appraises the relationship between love poetry and Arab society in the 8th to 11th centuries She avoids familiar clichés about the purity of love in Udhri poetry broadly speaking an Arabic counterpart to the western medieval concept of unconsummated courtly love and instead questions the traditional much vaunted emphasis on chastity and the assumption that this poetry omits any concept of the body Alharthi focuses on the key differences between what the poetry itself says and the views of later sources about Udhri poets and their works She also documents how the representation of the beloved in the Udhri ghazal was influenced by pre Islamic poetry showing how this tradition developed with a series of overlapping historical layers And she breaks new ground by examining how this poetry treats not only the body of the beloved but also that of her lover the poet himself

Reorientations / Arabic and Persian Poetry Suzanne Pinckney Stetkevych, 1994-03-22 Employing contemporary literary theory eight members of the Chicago school of Arabic and Persian literature reorient the critical approach to classical Middle Eastern literature The authors analyze a broad spectrum of poetry ranging from the pre Islamic ode of the sixth century to seventeenth century Persian Safavid Moghul verse Among issues considered are the ritual and sacrificial aspects of literature the transition from orality to literacy the iconographical and mythic dimensions of philology and imitation as a form of creation The inclusion of contemporary translations of all the poems discussed is an important feature for students of Middle Eastern literature and comparative poetics Northwest Illustrated Monthly Magazine ,1889 The Play Pictorial ,1928 The Wheelman Samuel Sidney McClure,1883 One Thousand Temperance Anecdotes, Facts, Jokes, Riddles, Puns and Smart Sayings, Suitable for Speakers, Penny Readings, Recitations, Etc., Original and Selected John William Kirton,1877 The Celtic Magazine Alexander Mackenzie,Alexander Macgregor,Alexander Macbain,1887 21st Century Music ,2004 The Square Deal ,1911 For Better, Not for Worse Langton George Vere,1882 The Journal of American Folklore ,1895 Journal of American Folk-lore ,1895 The Wide World Magazine ,1915

The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a brilliant and thrilling novel that will keep you guessing until the very end. The novel is a warning tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
