A Practical Guide to Managing Information for Competitive Positioning in Economic Development Keith Harman, 1990 Integrating concepts of marketing information resources management and planned change this volume demonstrates the versatility and potential applications of competitive positioning programs designed to enhance local and regional economic development In conjunction with its companion text the volume stresses an information resources management IRM perspective emphasizing that the effective acquisition interpretation and communication of information is a basic line managerial function rather than a support staff managerial function The first chapter introduces key concepts related to competitive positioning examines critical organizational factors associated with the successful implementation of competitive positioning programs and discusses important tasks necessary to initiate competitive positioning programs The last three chapters focus on the analytical tasks associated with competitive positioning programs the implementation and supervision of competitive positioning programs and the modification and termination of competitive positioning programs Each chapter has key activities included to aid readers in learning how to assess organizational and community readiness and to implement IRM based techniques

The Role and Importance of Managing Information for Competitive Positioning in Economic Development Keith Harman, 1990 This volume presents a perspective on programs and policies designed to enhance the development of local and regional economics The primary purpose is to provide an overview to assist economic development organizations in implementing competitive positioning programs and utilize IRM information resources management techniques The first three chapters build the case for an information resources management IRM perspective on economic development Chapter Four rounds out the discussion by proposing broad based academic and governmental endeavors based on a perspective on economic development that is consonant with a rapidly changing highly interdependent global economy in today s Information Age

New Organizational Designs Bob Travica, 1999-05-12 The organizational world today has been characterized in various terms turmoil chaos the age of paradox and unreason Common to all these characterizations is that the conventional wisdom fails in responding to novel challenges triggered by the pervasive and radical change of organizations Information knowledge information worker and information technology are at the epicenter of these changes and surprises This book explores new organizational designs such as the network and virtual organization from the information perspective In addition proposed is a model of the nontraditional organization in which information work evolves around teams that directly serve customers This model was put on a test and elements of the nontraditional organization were identified in firms that have been around for quite some time the public accounting industry and specifically its technologically most advanced segment The book aims at transferring experience and facilitating interest for methods of organizing suitable for the information age

Silencing Scientists and Scholars in Other Fields Gordon Moran, 1998-04-20 An examination of power paradigm controls peer review and scholarly communication It covers issues such as silencing scholars within totalitarian and democratic forms of government intellectual freedom intellectual suppression the big lie and the freedom to lie and rhetoric versus reality

Bibliographic Guide to Business and Economics New York Public Library. Research Libraries,1990

Organizational Decision Making and Information Mairead Browne,1993 This book provides an overview of organizational decision making and the use of information in the process In addition it draws on original empirical work to establish general principles for design of information systems which are tuned to the way managers actually behave and make decisions at the highest level of the organization The book also gives insights into the ways higher education institutions operate and deal with complex problems that are messy and have broad political ramifications It offers a solid basis for the necessary shared understanding between managers and information providers that will enable the information resources of an organization to be effectively harnessed to support decision making activities It demonstrates the way decision making occurs in organizations and shows how information contributes to these with a high level decision group and on the basis of the empirical tests proposed a new theory of complex decision making and information in organizational settings For readers interested in theoretical aspects of complex decision making or in research in decision making and information the book builds on the two theories of decision making with the highest profiles in the organizational literature It also shows new ways of testing those theories in the real world of organizations process A key feature of this volume is its contribution to the development of a theory of high level decision making in organizations that takes into account the function of information in the process This is accomplished through an account of a research project that formulated two broadly based theories of decision making and information use tested

Evaluation and Library Decision Making Peter Hernon,Charles R. McClure,1990 Evaluation which is a critical component of the planning process assesses the effectiveness and efficiency of library programs and services in the context of stated goals and objectives This book views evaluation as a type of research study in which evaluators collect either research or management data Chapters discuss steps of the evaluation process and provide practical examples of the application of these steps to specific library problems The overall objectives of the volume are to introduce readers to the relationship between planning and evaluation to discuss the components of an evaluation study in clear prose so that readers can easily understand the different steps to foster an attitude that recognizes the importance of evaluation for the development of library programs and services to offer examples of each component of the evaluation process to identify writings on evaluation in libraries and information centers and to encourage organizational change and underscore the importance of evaluation to library decision making

Librarianship Roma M. Harris,1992 Analyses the increasing marginalization of librarianship from a feminist perspective

Basic Research Methods for Librarians Ronald R. Powell,1991 Library Performance, Accountability and Responsiveness Ernest R. DeProspero,1990 This volume is the most comprehensive compilation of ideas related to library performance yet assembled It brings together noted researchers and successful library directors and educators who have extended the landmark findings and efforts of their mentor and friend Ernest DeProsop The editors give a historical account of contemporary measurement activities suggest methodologies for measuring performance offer viewpoints on planning goal setting and validity and comment on problems associated with planning one of the major tools of measurement Readers of the book will develop informed opinions about planning a practice that when entered into unaware can enslave an organization in endless data gathering routines and tax their endurance beyond reasonable points Thought provoking comments on the directions taken and not taken by library thinkers challenge the reader to speculate about current library think The National Research and Education Network (NREN) Charles R. McClure,1991 An overview and status report on the progress made in developing such a network as of early 1991 intended to serve as a handbook on NREN development a sourcebook of important NREN policy statements and a report on research conducted at Syracuse U on topics related to electronic networks Price to individuals is 49 50 Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR

Forthcoming Books Rose Army,1997 United States Scientific and Technical Information Policies Charles R. McClure,Peter Hernon,1989 An introductory perspective on selected issues related to Federal STI policies Contributors describe aspects of the existing system and suggest possible strategies for improvement Annotation copyright Book News Inc Portland Or An introductory perspective on selected issues related to Federal ST Statistics for Library Decision Making Peter Hernon,1989 This handbook assists students in understanding statistics and the types of decisions that the selection of a test entails At the same time the volume will assist a broad audience by reviewing the research process by presenting fundamental statistical concepts and methods by identifying writings on library management using statistical analyses by discussing statistical applications to library management decision making and problem solving and by familiarizing library managers with statistical tables and analysis and graphics software The purpose of this volume is to supplement statistical textbooks and to inform library managers and library school students about the application of selected statistical tests and the interpretation of statistical findings This volume presents basic statistical and research concepts clearly It is not intended as a textbook that identifies numerous statistical tests and merely details their computations Rather the book complements the pool of existing textbooks by placing selected statistical applications in the context of the research process and library decision For Information Specialists Howard White,Marcia Bates,Patrick Wilson,1992 United States Government Information Policies Charles R. McClure,Peter Hernon,Harold C. Relyea,1989 The editors believe that information professionals must move beyond mere description of government information sources and activities and assess the policy system that provides a framework for them Beginning with the need for research and analytical studies in the field the authors trace the historical development of Federal information policy review the role of the Office of Management and Budget in the development of policy and present private sector and citizens perspectives Other topics include rights and restrictions of access to government information electronic collection and dissemination of information by Federal agencies the National Technical Information Service and efforts to privatize its operations and the complexities in dealing with protected information ISBN 0 89391 563 7 49 50      Recent Publications on Governmental Problems, 1990

Depository Library Use of Technology Jan Swanbeck, Peter Hernon, 1993      Information Policy Robert H. Burger, 1993 This volume examines the role of specialized knowledge in evaluating and designing information policy The author begins with a description of the context in which American information policy is made with examples of existing domestic and international policies He explores scientific and technical information presents a case study of the SATCOM Report and concludes with suggestions for a new broadly conceived research agenda within the framework of the method of investigation described in the book      Technology and Information Services Carol L. Anderson, Robert Hauptman, 1993 This handbook provides helpful guidance for the information services practitioner and manager It contains a wealth of concrete information necessary for managing technology and its applications and for providing technological leadership Although there are a plethora of monographs allocated to general and specific aspects of automation computerization and technological innovation in libraries and information centers this volume is unique in offering a conceptual framework for implementing and managing technologies plus a detailed discussion of technologies in relation to both the needs of information seekers and the changes they have wrought in delivering services to users The volume will also be of interest to students because it provides a historical context for recent changes brought about by technological applications describes current practices and explores issues and trends on the horizon
