Program Evaluation A Pluralistic Enterprise:

Program Evaluation Lee Sechrest, 1993 Together chapters Two and Three show how advantage increases if pluralism is planned and deliberate whether at the stage of formulating problems and conducting research or at the stage of synthesizing and interpreting the findings of multiple studies No single study is likely to yield findings that we should consider definitive The same can probably be said of program evaluations Certainly no single study can teach us much of what we need to know Chapter Two on critical multiplism describes an overall strategy for the conduct of research This strategy is applicable to the aggregate efforts of a set of researchers working on problems in common but it also has implications for the planning of individual research Program Evaluation: a Pluralistic Enterprise, 1993 Evaluation in Action Jody L. Fitzpatrick, Christina Christie, Melvin M. Mark, 2009 An innovative approach to program evaluation that takes readers behind the scenes of real evaluations and the decisions the evaluators made Philosophical Foundations of Mixed Methods Research Yafeng Shan, 2023-12-01 Philosophical Foundations of Mixed Methods Research provides a comprehensive examination of the philosophical foundations of mixed methods research It offers new defences of the seven main approaches to mixed methods the pragmatist approach the transformative approach the indigenous approach the dialectical approach the dialectical pluralist approach the performative approach and the realist approach written by leading mixed methods researchers Each approach is accompanied by critical reflections chapter from philosophers point of view The book shows the value of the use of mixed methods from a philosophical point of view and offers a systematic and critical examination of these positions and approaches from a philosophical point of view The volume also offers a platform to promote a dialogue between mixed methods researchers and philosophers of science and provides foundations for further research and teaching of this hotly debated topic This volume is ideal for researchers and advanced students and anyone who is interested in research methods and the social sciences more generally Program Evaluation Emil J. Posavac, Raymond G. Carey, 1997 Posavac and Carey provide a comprehensive but accessible introduction to the field of program evaluation By adopting a flexible philosophy of evaluation the authors demonstrate how program evaluation can be applied to answer a wide variety of questions in many different settings Enjoying widespread acceptance Program Evaluation includes case studies of completed program evaluations and sketches of the careers of program evaluators to help readers develop an appreciation of the applicability of evaluation methods By viewing program evaluation as a formalization of something that people do all the time and indeed find essential the implicit threat of evaluation is reduced by the authors approach Posavac and Carey stress the importance of working with representatives of all groups affected by the program whether they be program staff or managers recipients or people providing financial or moral support The Improvement Focused Model of Evaluation can be used to include many people in the evaluation process The authors show that the application of program evaluation serves to contribute to making society more effective just and healthy Integrated Pest Management Rajinder Peshin, Ashok K.

Dhawan, 2009-03-10 Integrated Pest Management Dissemination and Impact Volume 2 is a sequel to Integrated Pest Management Innovation Development Process Volume 1. The book focuses on the IPM systems in the developed countries of North America, Europe, and Australia and the developing countries of Asia, Latin America, and Africa. One of the major impediments in the dissemination and adoption of the IPM innovation is the complexity of the technology and reaching the vast population of farmers, especially in the developing countries. The IPM innovation development process is incomplete without the diffusion and adoption of IPM methods by the end users and through its consequences. In spite of all the efforts in the developed and developing countries, the adoption of IPM is still low, with few exceptions. The book covers the underlying concepts and methodologies of the diffusion of innovation theory and the program evaluation and reviews the progress and impact of IPM programs implemented in the industrialized, the green revolution, and the subsistence agricultural systems of the world. Forty-four experts from entomology, plant pathology, environmental science, agronomy, anthropology, economics, and extension education from Africa, Asia, Australia, Europe, North America, and South America have discussed the impact of IPM with an interdisciplinary perspective. Each one of the experts is an authority in his or her field of expertise. The researchers, farmers, education, supporting policies of the governments, and market forces are the elements of the IPM innovation system to achieve wider adoption of IPM strategy in agriculture.

User-friendly Handbook for Mixed Method Evaluations Joy A. Frechtling, Laure Metzger Sharp, 1997. In the evaluation of the process and effectiveness of projects funded by the NSF's Directorate for Education, experienced evaluators have found that most often the best results are achieved through the use of mixed method evaluations combining quantitative and qualitative techniques. Aimed at users who need practical rather than technically sophisticated advice about evaluation methodology, this handbook includes an in-depth discussion of the collection and analysis of qualitative data and examines how qualitative techniques can be combined effectively with quantitative measures. New Directions for Program Evaluation, 1978 Critically Evaluating the Role of Experiments Kendon J. Conrad, 1994 Evaluation Country Development Policies and Programs Robert Picciotto, Ray C. Rist, 1995-10-02. This issue of New Directions for Evaluation deals with the special evaluation problems of programs in the developing world. Over the last two decades, the framework of economic and social development policy and practice has been transformed. This is due in part to evaluation lessons which have helped to shape the new development priorities toward sustainability, participation, and institutional development. In turn, evaluation must deal with the consequences of a more demanding agenda, a more fractured development constituency, and a vastly more complex set of analytical questions. This publication presents the views of development policy makers, practitioners, and evaluators on the kinds of adjustments needed in the approaches, instruments, and processes used by development evaluators. The chapters were discussed in draft form at a Conference on Evaluation and Development hosted by the World Bank in Washington, D.C. in December 1994. The resulting collection offers a consistent framework for further debate and proposes new emphases for development evaluation This is the 67th issue in the journal series New Directions for Evaluation For more information on the series please see the Journals and Periodicals page
