Vocab Readings + Comprehension

What are Hard Skills?

READING C

Hard skills are the specific abilities you learn for a job. They are the technical skills you can see, measure, and practice at work. They are different from soft skills, which are about working with other people.

Examples of hard skills include typing, driving, using tools, and operating machines. Each job requires different hard skills and training and experience to build these hard skills to be ready for certain fields. Some jobs and early job experience can help you learn the skills for certain fields.

For example, a chef uses hard skills to prepare meals and how to use a knife and other kitchen tools and equipment. A mechanic uses hard skills to repair cars and solve problems and fix them.
