Regional Change in Industrializing Asia Leo van Grunsven, 2019-01-04 First published in 1998 this book responds to the dynamics of Industrializing Asia and the behavioural changes of actors which in response to changing internal and external forces have given rise to and are constantly giving rise to alterations in patterns of growth From a geographical perspective these are expressed in regional change understood as a reconstruction of spatial organization The imperatives of dynamic comparative advantage changing global or regional competitiveness and regional competition faced by different actors entities or territorial units can be identified as important forces underlying and shaping regional change This volume provides further illumination contextualization and interpretation of the spatiality of the economic reality in Industrializing Asia as well as the role played by and the implications for different actors The objectives of this book are 1 to outline the processes of regional change linked to responses in the form of restructuring and integrative and regionalization tendencies as well as the realignment of the global regional local divide in production systems complexes and the operation of firms associated with reorganization of production in the process of maintaining and reconfiguring comparative advantage 2 to highlight the wide scope of the process by considering differential units of analysis linked to the agents and manifestations of regional change and the role of scale in terms of the spatial units involved 3 to highlight the implications as to the current and future position or role of differential actors agents particularly nation state in shaping the new economic reality in the region and as a corollary its positioning in the global economic order

Power, Powerlessness, and Globalization Opoku Agyeman, 2014-08-20 This book is about imperialism driven globalization its historic impact on Africa Latin America and Asia and over time the varied responses of the national political units and regional entities in these continents to the challenges of building countervailing power and laying foundations for independent development Where genuine recovery and empowerment have emerged this has been the result not only of the pursuit of dignitist political and economic values that emphasize robust and sustained productivity geared toward uplifting the living standards and dignity of all the members of the national society but also of the creation of indigenous institutions whose relations with the external world are defined by equality rather than dependence and subordination Opoku Agyeman argues that dignification is the fundamentally necessary response to imperialism's inevitable afflictions of national racial humiliation It is the most crucial ingredient in the complex of motivations that propel formerly weak nation states and regional communities to rise up and defend the honor of their people

As Mao Zedong told the world in 1949 Ours will no longer be a nation subject to insult and humiliation We have stood up This study argues emphatically that it is a country s or region s developed or developing capabilities not its historic and continuing victimization or habitual dependence on charitable aid and other altruistic interventions from the international community that determines its success in escaping the scourge of powerlessness and underdevelopment It further maintains that a people who have been brought low through brutal dehumanizing imperialism cannot bypass the need for redemptive empowerment if they wish to regain honor and a proper place in the world Finally it takes issue with Joseph Stiglitz Jeffrey Sachs and others like them whose moralistic critiques of the rapacity of imperialistic globalization carry the unfortunate implication that it is possible for a fair and just world social order to come out of incremental reforms of philanthropically motivated developed powerful countries in the structure and operations of global capitalism Economics Lionel Danforth Edie,1926 Books and Pamphlets, Including Serials and Contributions to Periodicals Library of Congress. Copyright Office,1968 International Economic Relations John Donaldson,1928 Reading Lists Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Library,1930 Asia Pacific Regionalism Ross Garnaut,James H. Davidson,Peter Drysdale,Liz Siemenssen,1996-02-23 Bringing together the key literature on Asia Pacific regionalism this is an exploration of the main historical theoretical and policy developments that have led to closer economic integration and co operation in the Asia Pacific Tariff Problems of the United States American Academy of Political and Social Science,1928 The Publishers' Trade List Annual ,1975 The United States Catalog ,1924 Bulletin of the School of Economics University of Pittsburgh,University of Pittsburgh. School of Economics,1909 The New Larned History for Ready Reference, Reading and Research Josephus Nelson Larned,1924 Regional Cooperation and Conflict Management Niklas Swanström,2002 Regional cooperation is increasingly important as a means to create peaceful relations and improve economic development The problem today is not to initiate cooperation but rather how to handle disputes and maintain good relations This is done through conflict management mechanisms CMMs in most regional cooperation structures However the interaction between such structures and regional conflict management mechanisms is not sufficiently examined and as a result no coherent theoretical model that could explain this interaction has been constructed This has meant that in many cases the interaction is incorrectly assumed with negative social and economic outcomes
