Tourism, Heritage and Commodification of Non-human Animals: A Posthumanist Reflection Álvaro López López, Gino Jafet Quintero Venegas, Carol Kline, 2023-12-19 Heritage is a social construction rooted in modern and contemporary societies It is commonly a positive assessment of many elements of the physical and human environment e g ecosystems and landscapes monuments customs gender norms religious practices gastronomy and livelihoods Heritage and tourism are strongly related to each other in that heritage gives rise to tourist attractions and activities and tourism enhances the designation of heritage sites A post humanist perspective the moral valuation of equality between humans and other animals demands that both are sentient beings and self aware of their pain and pleasure Thus the involvement of animals as heritage elements by themselves or as an element of tourist consumption in heritage sites implies their commodification and lack of agency As such these practices are usually unethical since they threaten the animals primary interests not to suffer not to feel pain and to be able to live their freedom This book contains chapters that reveal both the unethical interactions between humans and animals within heritage tourism and those that show experiences in which efforts are made to minimize damage within the commercialization of animals involved as heritage themselves

Animal Nature and Human Nature W.H. Thorpe,2018-02-19 Our views on human nature are fundamental to the whole development indeed the whole future of human society Originally published in 1974 Professor Thorpe believed that this was one of the most important and significant topics to which a biologist can address himself and in this book he attempts a synthetic view of the nature of man and animal based on the five disciplines of physiology ethology genetics psychology and philosophy In a masterly survey of the natural order he shows the animal world as part of yet distinct from the inanimate world He then treats aspects of the animal world which approach the human world in behaviour and capabilities examining simple organisms communications in vertebrates and invertebrates innate behaviour versus acquired behaviour and animal perception In the second part of the book he deals with those aspects of human nature for which there is no analogy and which constitute man s uniqueness his consciousness of his past his awareness of his future and his desire to understand the meaning of his existence The primary facts which demonstrate the importance of this book arise from the ever growing power of man over his environment and his apparent inability to foresee and cope with the dangers of uncontrolled population growth on the one hand and the wildly irrational waste and degradation of the natural resources of the world on the other Professor Thorpe believes that an immense responsibility lies with literate men of good will particularly scientists to convince man that he is the spearhead and custodian of a stupendous evolutionary process Animal Nature and Human Nature integrates scientific fact with sound theological thought in an attempt to fulfil in a manner previously impossible Pascal s injunction that It is dangerous to show man too clearly how much he resembles the beast without at the same time showing him his greatness It is also dangerous to allow him too clear a vision of his greatness without his baseness It is even more dangerous to leave him in ignorance of both But it is very profitable to show him both

Context Gareth Moore, 1992 Examines some of the principal arguments and styles of argument which Christians and particularly the Roman Catholic Church have advanced in support of Christian standards in sexual ethics Catholic teaching has sought to present Christian sexual standards and values as reasonable as standards which anyone can see to be right if only they think about them in the right way Arguments have been drawn from both Scripture and from philosophy and experience the latter being particularly important at a time when the Church can no longer lay down the law but has to be able to persuade The author considers whether these arguments are valid or flawed His study covers such wide ranging topics as sexual pleasure the purpose of sex sexual gestures marriage contraception and homosexuality and in these areas and the more specific sexual issues which he covers he often finds the Church's case defective Though the Church has valuable things to say its supporting arguments can be unconvincing Better arguments he claims are needed or alternatively the possibility has to be faced that the Church's teaching needs to be modified But it does need to do more thinking about sex
