Selecting A Superintendent:

Selecting a Superintendent Public Education Association of the City of New York,1970 Superintendent Search and Selection Processes in the State of Wisconsin Lisa Olson,2012 Local school boards have the responsibility to select school superintendents to lead their districts The process by which school boards go about searching for and selecting a superintendent varies In Wisconsin school boards have the option to hire a search firm or other outside assistance or they can choose to search for and select a superintendent on their own Wisconsin Association of School Boards 2010 School districts in Wisconsin currently utilize all of these options Little data exists in analyzing the search and selection processes of a superintendent after the superintendent has been employed in the district and the match it provided The purpose of this study was to provide public school districts in Wisconsin guidance in choosing a search and selection process which provides the best match between a school district and a superintendent This study was important as it examined and interpreted processes to replace superintendents and the success factors associated with these processes in Wisconsin On Selecting a Superintendent of Schools American Association of School Administrators,1962 Superintendent Search and Selection Practices in the State of Missouri Scott W. Patrick,2006 Local school boards have the responsibility to select school superintendents to lead their districts The process by which school boards go about searching for and selecting a superintendent varies In Missouri school boards have the option to hire a search firm MSBA MASA MSSC etc or other outside assistance or they can choose to search for and select a superintendent on their own This study was conducted to establish how superintendent search and selection procedures were being utilized in the state of Missouri The study also attempted to distinguish between Missouri school boards that utilize superintendent search firms or conducted a search on their own and whether the boards were satisfied with their selection The purpose of this study was to describe and analyze current superintendent search and selection practices utilized by public school boards and their perceived effectiveness in the state of Missouri The study examined superintendent search criteria and attempted to determine what impact school district enrollment school district location school district wealth superintendent gender superintendent turnover rate and superintendents possessing a doctorate had on the superintendent selection process The study also attempted to show how school board members perceptions differed according to school district enrollment school district location school district wealth superintendent gender superintendent turnover rate and superintendents possessing a doctoral degree as related to superintendent search criteria This study found that the majority of school board respondents in Missouri selected their superintendent as opposed to hiring a search firm to complete the search and selection process An overwhelming majority of school board member respondents who conducted their own searches believed their search and selection procedures were effective Those boards that utilized search firms were also satisfied with the results of the search selection process Findings also suggest the variables of school district enrollment location school district wealth superintendent turnover rate superintendent gender and superintendents possessing a doctoral degree when coupled with de selection criteria and knowledge and skills used in the selection process had varying degrees of impact on the superintendent search and selection process This study may have implications for practitioners in the state of Missouri and elsewhere regarding future superintendent search and selection practices and their effectiveness Criteria Used by School Boards in the Selection of a Factors School Boards Consider when Selecting a Superintendent Randall D. Gilson,2003 Report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction Minnesota. Dept. of Education,1912 School Board Presidents' Perceptions of the Superintendent Selection Process Robert A. Rasmussen,2013 Abstract School districts face enormous challenges with recent reductions in fiscal resources due to cuts in California s state budget and an average tenure for a school superintendent of only 3 years School boards are challenged to find a leader who can address the needs of the school district during these difficult times As numerous school superintendents are retiring and a new generation of educators is applying for key positions in educational leadership it is important to better understand the perceptions of school board presidents who have experience in selecting a school superintendent This study explored the perceptions of the superintendent selection process of five participating school board presidents The participants in this study shared their perceptions of the superintendent search process and selection criteria perceptions on the most important leadership characteristics desired in a superintendent and perceptions in the standards used to measure leadership in the candidates selected as superintendent The findings revealed several components of the selection process that will serve school boards in evaluating the best strategy for them in conducting the superintendent search When school boards embark on the process of selecting a superintendent their actions become very public and ultimately reflect on how they view community involvement and input into on going district leadership As a result a well defined plan of action will reflect well on the school board build community trust and set the stage for a positive transition to new leadership at the superintendent level The assertion that selecting a superintendent may very well be the school board s most important duty of action it is imperative that such a process be articulated and integrated within the scope of district need and community involvement The Appointment of Teachers in Cities Frank Washington Ballou,1915 Biennial Report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction of the State of Washington ,1904 The Journal of the Senate During the ...
