Mobilizing Private Sector Resources For:

Mobilizing Private Finance for Sustainable Development United Nations Development Programme, 2016-11-30 The proactive engagement of the private sector was critical to accelerate the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals MDGs. Inevitably, private finance will become even more central in the concerted effort to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) due to their ambition. Private investment decisions in both the real economy and in the financial sector should move the world towards the aspirations set out in the 2030 agenda. This means going far beyond philanthropy and voluntary corporate social responsibility, important though they are. It is a matter of steering the investment decisions that private actors make every day. In the context of the Financing for Development debate, this discussion paper reflects on the latest trends and makes recommendations to:

1. Establish an enabling regulatory environment for the private sector to invest in the SDGs.
2. Introduce smart public incentives to fasten the realignment of private finance to the SDGs.
3. Foster change in company and consumer behaviours to transition to inclusive and sustainable markets.

Mobilizing Private Sector Resources for Infrastructure United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific, 1997 This publication discusses some important issues connected with the role of the private sector in infrastructure, provides detailed case studies on China, Malaysia, Thailand, and offers policy makers among others will find this publication most helpful when seeking to attract private investment in infrastructure.

Mobilizing Private Climate Financing in Emerging Market and Developing Economies Mr. Ananthakrishnan Prasad, Ms. Elena Loukoianova, Alan Xiaochen Feng, William Oman, 2022-07-27 Global investment to achieve the Paris Agreement's temperature and adaptation goals requires immediate actions, first and foremost on climate policies. Policies should be accompanied by commensurate financing flows to close the large financing gap globally and in emerging market and developing economies (EMDEs) in particular. This note discusses potential ways to mobilize domestic and foreign private sector capital in climate finance as a complement to climate-related policies by mitigating relevant risks and constraints through public-private partnerships involving multilateral, regional, and national development banks. It also overviews the role the IMF can play in the process.

Institution and Human Resource Capacity Building in ASEAN United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific, 1999 Most Southeast Asian countries have until recently had a long period of rapid and reasonably equitable growth. This remarkable performance was achieved largely because sound policies were implemented effectively by capable institutions with competent staff. This is especially true in key policy areas such as macroeconomic management, product transformations, trade, and investment promotion and infrastructure development. Many developing economies in Asia and the Pacific, including the new and potentially new members of ASEAN, namely Cambodia, Laos, Myanmar, and Viet Nam, which are facing enormous challenges resulting from domestic economic reforms and exposure to the international economy, could benefit from the experiences of institution and human resource capacity building in older ASEAN countries. This publication contains an
