Methodological And Statistical Advances In The Study Of Individual Differences:

Methodological and Statistical Advances in the Study of Individual Differences Cecil R. Reynolds, Victor Wilson, 2013-11-11 Differential psychology or the psychology of individual differences as it is better known is perhaps the single most important basic psychological science that underlies professional practice in psychology The recent age of behaviorism all but ignored individual differences but in this decade the study has emerged from relative dormancy with a new vitality fueled by new concepts technologies statistics and new viewpoints on old ideas that are moving us forward This work is intended to be a review of as well as a primer on many of these advances and new approaches to the study of individual differences The venerable interesting and often controversial Eysenck opens the volume with a review of recent results and new techniques for unlocking the physiological basis of what is commonly understood to be intelligence Eysenck and his students in his London laboratory have been fostering advances in this field for more than four decades Their latest work could be the most exciting of Eysenck s illustrious scholarly career Eysenck s eye opening innovative work on the relationship between evoked potentials and performance on traditional psychometric measures presented with a new slant is certain to attract much attention in coming years Eysenck and Barrett s chapter is followed by a closely related work by Arthur Jensen who gives us a revitalizing look at the concepts of Sir Francis Galton the founder of the psychology of individual differences

The Scientific Study of General Intelligence Helmuth Nyborg, 2003-07-11 This book celebrates two triumphs in modern psychology the successful development and application of a solid measure of general intelligence and the personal courage and skills of the man who made this possible Arthur R Jensen from Berkeley University The volume traces the history of intelligence from the early 19th century approaches to the most recent analyses of the hierarchical structure of cognitive abilities and documents the transition from a hopelessly confused concept of intelligence to the development of an objective measure of psychometric g The contributions illustrate the impressive power g has with respect to predicting educational achievement getting an attractive job or social stratification The book is divided into six parts as follows Part I presents the most recent higher stream analysis of cognitive abilities Part II deals with biological aspects of g such as research on brain imaging glucose uptake working memory reaction time inspection time and other biological correlates and concludes with the latest findings in g related molecular genetics Part III addresses demographic aspects of g such as geographic race and sex differences and introduces differential psychological aspects as well Part IV concentrates on the g nexus and relates such highly diverse topics as sociology genius retardation training education jobs and crime to g Part V contains chapters critical of research on g and its genetic relationship and also presents a rejoinder Part VI looks at one of the greatest contemporary psychologists Professor Emeritus Arthur R Jensen as teacher and mentor

Human Abilities in Cultural Context S. H. Irvine, John W. Berry, 1988-09-30

Originally published in 1988 Human Abilities in Cultural Context constituted a major development in conceptualising and studying human abilities. It formed a unique reference frame. This study offers a re-evaluation of ability theory by the editors S. H. Irvine and J. W. Berry and strong individual statements by H. J. Eysenck, Arthur R. Jensen, Joseph R. Royce and Robert J. Sternberg, who represent markedly different approaches to the measurement of intelligence. It also focuses on contexts in which the limits of assessment by psychological tests are defined in minority native groups in North America, in migrants to Britain, in lower caste enclaves in India, among African minorities and among Australian Aborigines. Written by long-term residents of the regions in question, these chapters presented a wealth of fresh data in relation to Western formulations of theory and practice.

Assessing Adolescent and Adult Intelligence Alan S. Kaufman, Elizabeth O. Lichtenberger, 2005-08-05

The classic text now updated with a new interpretive approach to the WAIS III. Assessing Adolescent and Adult Intelligence the classic text from Alan Kaufman and Elizabeth Lichtenberger has consistently provided the most comprehensive source of information on cognitive assessment of adults and adolescents. The newly updated Third Edition provides important enhancements and additions that highlight the latest research and interpretive methods for the WAIS III. Augmenting the traditional sequential and simultaneous WAIS III interpretive methods, the authors present a new approach derived from Cattell-Horn-Carroll (CHC) theory. This approach combines normative assessment performance relative to age peers with ipsative assessment performance relative to the person's own mean level. Following Flanagan and Kaufman's work to develop a similar CHC approach for the WISC-IV, Kaufman and Lichtenberger have applied this system to the WAIS III profile of scores, along with integrating recent WAIS III literature. Four appendices present the new method in depth. In addition to a detailed description, the authors provide a blank interpretive worksheet to help examiners make the calculations and decisions needed for applying the additional steps of the new system and norms tables for the new WAIS III subtest combinations added in this approach. Assessing Adolescent and Adult Intelligence remains the premier resource for the field, covering not only the WAIS III but also the WJ III, the KAIT and several brief measures of intelligence, as well as laying out a relevant up-to-date discussion of the discipline. The new theory-based interpretive approach for the WAIS III makes this a vital resource for practicing psychologists as well as a comprehensive text for graduate students.

Human Differences Lewis R. Aiken, 2014-04-08

This text reviews the mass of information concerning the ways in which individuals and groups differ from each other. Reviews of research findings and interpretations are provided on physical appearance, performance and health, cognitive abilities, personality and development across the life span. Extensive treatment of foundations, historical measurement, research methods, biological, social and cultural is also provided. Both normal and abnormal behaviors are considered. The book provides an interdisciplinary focus, including material from all the behavior and natural sciences, not just psychology, sociology or biology.
