Preface

The third edition of Refining Composition Skills presents an integrated program of writing for high-intermediate and advanced students of English as a second language. It combines extensive practice in rhetorical strategies and techniques with a review of appropriate grammatical structures and verb forms. With its extensive appendices, the text can function serve as a handbook for writing, grammar, and mechanics. The primary audience is the academically-oriented ESL student; however, the text also can be useful in developmental writing courses for native speakers who could benefit from their guidance in writing compositions.

Refining Composition Skills can accommodate the needs of students of varying degrees of experience and levels of writing skills. Inexperienced writers will benefit a solid foundation in writing beginning with Unit One, which presents the basic paragraph patterns useful for high school or college-level writing: narrative, descriptive, and expository. This unit covers developing and controlling topic sentences, organizing and developing effective, detailed support of the controlling idea, and concluding. Students who have had considerable practice composing the types of paragraphs presented in this unit may consider the chapters in Unit One a review. More experienced writers might begin the text with Unit Two, which focuses on the multiparagraph essay. This unit introduces the common patterns of exposition along with organization. Here the emphasis is on a strong thesis statement and appropriate and well-organized support.

Excerpts for Chapters 1 and 2, which provide introductions to the paragraphs and essay, respectively, each chapter in Refining Composition Skills focuses on a detailed study of diction and the organization
