

Comparative Analysis: 1967 vs 2023 Referendums

Aspect	1967 Referendum	2023 Referendum (Voice to Parliament)
Background	Indigenous Australians were excluded from key areas of the Constitution. Aboriginal people were not counted in the national census and the Commonwealth had no power to make laws for them (left to states).	Indigenous Australians continue to experience disadvantage and lack constitutional recognition. Calls for a 'Voice to Parliament' arose from the Uluru Statement from the Heart (2017), seeking recognition and advisory representation.
Proposal	Two main changes: 1. Remove Section 127 (exclude Indigenous Australians from census). 2. Amend Section 51(xxxv) to allow Commonwealth to make laws for Aboriginal people.	Insert a new section in the Constitution to establish an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Voice — an advisory body to give input on laws/policies affecting Indigenous people.
Results (National)	Yes: 90.77% (largest 'Yes' vote in Australian referendum history). No: 9.23%.	Yes: 39.94% No: 60.06%. One of the largest referendum defeats in Australian history.
Results (By State)	All six states voted Yes (needed majority nationally + majority of states). - NSW: 91.46% - VIC: 94.68% - QLD: 89.24% - WA: 80.95% - SA: 86.30% - TAS: 90.23%	All six states voted No (so referendum failed). - NSW: 41% Yes - VIC: 45% Yes - QLD: 32% Yes - WA: 37% Yes - SA: 35% Yes - TAS: 41% Yes
Significance	Considered a turning point in Indigenous rights. Symbolically powerful, as it showed overwhelming support for change and inclusion. Practically, it enabled federal government involvement in Aboriginal affairs (but did not guarantee rights/equality).	Significant because it showed division in modern Australia on Indigenous constitutional recognition. It highlighted challenges around constitutional reform, misinformation, and political trust. The defeat stalled constitutional recognition but did not end

Palgrave Handbook of European Referendums Julie Smith,2021-03-02 This handbook provides an empirically rich analysis of referendums in Europe from the end of the Second World War to the present It addresses a range of perennial theoretical and legal questions that face policy makers when they offer citizens the chance to take or influence decisions by referendum not least whether to accept the will of the people Taking a multi disciplinary approach drawing on historical philosophical and political science perspectives the book includes a contextual section on the history of referendums the theoretical questions underpinning their use and on constitutional and legal questions about the use of referendums The empirical sections are divided into those referendums that focus on domestic issues such as constitutional matters or questions of social policy and those related to the European Union including membership referendums and treaty ratification

A Comparative Study of Referendums Mads Qvortrup,Matt Qvortrup,2005-10-07 Combining an account of the political history and philosophy of the referendum with a thorough assessment of the practical experiences with referendums in western democracies this book has established itself as the unrivalled market leader in the field Fully revised and with new chapters on campaign spending and the administration of referendums the second edition of this book provides a thorough overview of the theory and practice of referendums Keeping the People's Liberties John J. Dinan,1998 4 The theory and design of populist institutions The McGill Law Journal ,1979 Post-Conflict Referendums and Peace Processes Kentaro Fujikawa,2024-12-10 This book provides a comparative study of the impact of referendums on conflict resolution and peacebuilding in post conflict societies Post conflict referendums have increasingly been held as part of peace processes While policy makers are hopeful that these referendums serve peace and democracy the burgeoning literature on them has expressed significant reservations about their use particularly on territorial issues because referendums do not have mechanisms for compromise To gauge the actual impact of these referendums on peace processes the book systematically compares three post conflict referendums on self determination held with their respective central governments consent in Eritrea East Timor and Southern Sudan Relying on more than 70 elite interviews it examines 1 the rationales behind the decision to hold referendums 2 the referendums impact on resolving the original self determination conflicts and 3 their impact on post conflict peacebuilding inside the newly independent states The three case studies reveal various rationales behind such referendums and show that referendums play a limited albeit positive role in settling the original conflicts Furthermore holding referendums after civil wars has various positive negative and often unexpected impacts on domestic and international peacebuilding efforts inside newly independent states This book provides careful thorough and well balanced accounts of these referendums impact on peace processes This book will be of much interest to students of peace and conflict studies African and South East Asian politics and International Relations Chapter 1 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license
