Postsoviettype Economies In Transition:

Post-Soviet-type Economies in Transition Jan Winiecki, 1993 Seven essays written 1990-92 present a relatively coherent account of the ongoing transition from planned to market economies in the former Soviet Union Rather than trying to adapt abstract theory to a situation few if any economists ever expected draws on an accumulated knowledge of Soviet economics and politics A narrative rather than mathematical treatment accessible to nonspecialists No index Acidic paper Distributed in the US by Ashgate Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR

The Private Sector after Communism Vladimir Banacek, Mihaly Laki, Jan Winiecki, 2004-06-01 The transformation of state owned enterprises into privately owned ones is commonly referred to as privatization Just as important as this process though sometimes not given the attention it deserves and requires is the establishment and expansion of new private firms This book analyzes new entrepreneurial firms that emerge and occasionally flourish after a period of state communism has come to an end The authors rightly focus on the aftermath of the end of communism by looking first at the inevitable output decline followed by an overview of new entrepreneurial firms Specific East European examples are examined and the lessons which can be learned from these will interest academics and policy makers alike Committed and knowledgeable authors in this book treat the sometimes emotive issue of transition developing economies maturely and expertly The result is a volume which will interest scholars with an interest in transition economics and politics as well as those who actively work in transition economies

Political Economy of Reform and Change (Routledge Revivals) Jan Winiecki, 2013-04-03 First published in 1997 this collection of articles and essays analyses the political economy of reform and change in Eastern Europe during the years of Gorbachev's perestroika and the years immediately following the fall of the Berlin wall and the collapse of the Soviet Union Written by Polish economist Jan Winiecki between 1984 and 1996 this work explores the issue of the feasibility of reform and change during the period of decline and collapse of communist economic order and later the emergence of the capitalist economic order in the post communist Eastern Europe Split into three parts the work considers firstly the failures of Gorbachev's political economy of reform secondly the determining factors in the collapse of the Soviet system and finally the feasibility of the systematic change which began in the wake of its collapse

Behaviour and Institutions Under Economic Reform Wim Swaan, 1993 This book explores the process of economic reform in Hungary that has produced a remarkable combination of continuity and change to a Market Economy Tarmo Haavisto, 1997 The Baltic countries of Estonia Lithuania and Latvia were pioneers among the former Soviet republics in implementing political and economic reforms Starting in 1988 the transition process in these three countries has been rapid and demonstrates the key role of economic issues in the reform process In this important new book a distinguished group of contributors assesses the current situation and highlights certain theoretical features of the transformation process They conclude that the Baltic States have for the moment succeeded in their aim of stabilizing both the domestic price level and the exchange rate by a combination of responsible fiscal policy and adaptation of a pegged undervalued exchange rate

Aussenwirtschaft, 1991 Bibliographie Zum Ökonomischen Wandel in Osteuropa Milija Pajević, Frauke Siefkes, 1993 Eastern Europe and the Commonwealth of Independent States, 1997 PPRG Discussion Papers, 1994 Privatisation in Previously Centrally Planned Economies Lâle Larissa Wiesner, 1997

Privatisation is a central theme in discussions over the transition process of previously centrally planned economies PCPE This study examines the developments in privatisation in Azerbaijan one of the last republics of the FSU to embark upon the road of privatisation The aim of research was to obtain first hand information on the privatisation process and to construct a qualitative contextual picture of the power struggle over property rights Part one establishes a theoretical framework under which privatisation in PCPEs can be evaluated It establishes that privatisation can be seen as an instrument to build up a sound system of enterprise control and initiate industrial restructuring and thus enhance static and dynamic efficiency The success and effectiveness of this tool is dependent on various factors especially 1 the evolution of institutional preconditions i e the development of the political legal and financial framework and other fundamental institutions of a market environment 2 the question of the power of the state i e is it a strong state with agenda setting power or a weak state susceptible to counterproductive rent seeking activities of insiders 3 the proposed methods of privatisation 4 the process of contracting for property rights By applying the theories of privatisation in PCPEs developed in the first part the second provides an account of the Azeri privatisation process and its likely effect on static and dynamic efficiency placing special emphasis on institutional preconditions Because of the nature of the proposed research especially in grasping the institutional dimensions of Azerbaijan s transition intensive fieldwork was regarded as part of an appropriate research design The analysis is based on original Azeri documents and archival records transcripts of almost 127 hours of interviews and extensive field visits carried out between December 1993 and February 1995

Quarterly Review, 1993 Challenges for Russian Economic Reform, 1995 Challenges for Russian Economic Reform contains papers published by the Post Soviet Business Forum at the Royal Institute of International Affairs that have been revised for this volume The contributors specialists in Russian economic affairs examine the principal economic and institutional factors that have hindered transformation in Russia The sheer size of the country has complicated the problem of exposing domestic producers to foreign competition and has weakened the ability of central authorities to control the regions Economic stabilization has been hampered by the difficulties in establishing sound economic relations with the former Soviet republics Russian and Soviet Economic Performance and Structure Paul R. Gregory, Robert C. Stuart, 1998 This study in transition economics covers Russian and Soviet economic performance and looks at the origins of the Soviet economy the administrative command economy and its decline and contemporary Russia Institutional Frameworks of Market Economies Jerzy Hausner, Bob Jessop, Klaus Nielsen, 1993 The contemporary structural transformations in Eastern Europe involve among other things the setting up of an institutional framework for a market economy The analysis of this process could benefit from comparison with Western models This text focuses on Poland and the Scandinavian or negotiated economy model Politics and Finance Gretchen Ruth Rodkey, 1996
