

Cognitive Distortions

(Beck, 1972; Burns, 1980)

Personalization or Blame

Holding yourself personally responsible (or blame others) for something that is not entirely under your (or their) control (i.e. you assume you are a bad mother when your child gets in trouble at school).

"Should" Statements

Focusing on how things should be based on expectation (i.e. you beat yourself up because you should not have made so many mistakes during a presentation).

Emotional Reasoning

Assuming that your negative emotions reflect the truth (i.e. you're feeling angry so this proves you must have been treated unfairly).

Magnification or Catastrophizing

Imagining an unfavourable outcome to a situation and believing this outcome will most likely occur (i.e. you get a 'we need to talk' text message and right away start to imagine the worst possible news)

Fortune Telling

Jumping to conclusions by predicting that things will turn out badly (i.e. you are going through depression and tell yourself, 'I'll never get better').

Mental Distortions:

Tibetan Buddhism from the Ground Up B. Alan Wallace, Steven Wilhelm, 2016-04-26 As long as our minds are dominated by the conditions of the external world we are bound to remain in a state of dissatisfaction always vulnerable to grief and fear How then can we develop an inner sense of well being and redefine our relationship to a world that seems unavoidably painful and unkind Many have found a practical answer to that question in the teachings of Tibetan Buddhism Here at last is an organized overview of these teachings beginning with the basic themes of the sutras the general discourses of the Buddha and continuing through the esoteric concepts and advanced practices of Tantra Unlike other introductions to Tibetan Buddhism this accessible enjoyable work doesn't stop with theory and history but relates timeless spiritual principles to the pressing issues of modern life both in terms of our daily experience and our uniquely Western world view This fascinating highly readable book asks neither unquestioning faith nor blind obedience to abstract concepts or religious beliefs Rather it challenges us to question and investigate life's issues for ourselves in the light of an ancient and effective approach to the sufferings and joys of the human condition

The Seven-Point Mind Training B. Alan Wallace, 2012-05-16 A guide to the Tibetan Buddhist practice of lojong meditation or mind training as a way to pause reflect and discover the true meaning and value of life In this society with its hurly burly pace demanding of our time it is ever so easy to let life slip by Looking back after ten twenty thirty years we wonder what we have really accomplished The process of simply existing is not necessarily meaningful And yet there is an unlimited potential for meaning and value in this human existence The Seven Point Mind Training is one eminently practical way of tapping into that meaning At the heart of the Seven Point Mind Training lies the transformation of the circumstances that life brings us however hard as the raw material from which we create our own spiritual path The central theme of the Seven Point Mind Training is to make the liberating passage from the constricting solitude of self centeredness to the warm kinship with others which occurs with the cultivation of cherishing others This Mind Training is especially well suited for an active life It helps us to reexamine our relationships to family friends enemies and strangers and gradually transform our responses to whatever life throws our way

Perfecting Wisdom The Dalai Lama, 2019-07-16 Based on a lecture given by the Dalai Lama on the wisdom chapter of A Guide to the Bodhisattva Way of Life this book comments on Tibetan Buddhist philosophy in a clear and direct way Shantideva's A Guide to the Bodhisattva Way of Life is one of the most important texts in the Mahayana tradition of Buddhist practice Its ninth chapter the section on transcendent wisdom is known among Buddhist scholars as a challenging exposition of Madhyamika philosophy and difficult to understand without a commentary This extraordinarily clear discussion of the wisdom chapter is based on an oral teaching given by His Holiness the Dalai Lama before an audience of thousands of Tibetans and Westerners This invaluable volume with its precise explanation of core issues of Tibetan Buddhism stands as a key work in Buddhist literature This book was
