

Philosophy: The problem of evil.

- Why is there evil. Evil comes in many forms such as the logical problem of evil ; the world is full of evil.
- Theist and atheists both agree that evil exists but Many THEISTS believe in an omniscient omnipotent and omnibenevolent god. But AITHESITS contradicts,/ believes that a set of beliefs that cant all be true at the same time, if one is true, another must be false.
- If some way someone can prove and resolve the logical problem of evil and that why god allow evil into the world then they are known as THEODICY

THEORY: an attempt to show that the existence of evil doesn't rule out the possibility of gods existence. The most popular theodicy is called THE FREE WILL DEFENCE

THE FREE WILL DEFENCE: this argument holds that god maximised the goodness in the world by creating free beings, and being free means that we have the choice to do evil things – a choice that some of us exercise. This theodicy says that god doesn't create evil, but evil cant be avoided without depriving us of our freedom.

Although god does know about evil and could stop it, he has a good reason not to, to ensure our freedom in the world because a world without freedom would be a worse place overall.

THE FREE WILL DEFENCE really only addresses whats known as MORAL EVIL.

MORAL EVIL: evil committed, on purpose, by humans.

NATURAL EVIL: evil which we're not responsible for. And the free will defence cant resolve natural evil

In life good cannot exist without its opposite (bad), the idea is one cannot understand the concept of pleasure without pain. Or we don't know what it feels like to be warm if we haven't been cold.

20th century English philosopher of religion john Hick offered whats known as he SOUL-MAKING THEODICY, unlike the tradional view that god created a perfect world, which we ruined through our own poor choices, HICK argued that God Deliberatley creates us "UNFINISHED" and our earthly lives are designed to toughen us up, in a sense.

" the Harshness of life, gives us a robus texture and character that wouldn't be possible without an imperfect world".

THE EVIDENTIAL PROBLEM OF EVIL: this problem explains as to why evil exists. But still cannot explain why there is so much evil in the world. If we say " if god were truly good, and if a negative contrast were reallt needed in order for us to understand the goodness of the world, then why wouldn't he just give us the very minimum dosage of necessary evil to achieve that goal?

But A counter-argument might suggest that there's always a good that corresponds to, and is proportionate to, any evil.
