In support of tribal efforts to protect the Bears Ears, Native writers bear testimony to the fragile and essential nature of this sacred landscape in America's remote red rock country. Through poem and essay, these often-ignored voices explore the ways many Native people derive tradition, sustenance, and cultural history from the Bears Ears. To us, these places represent more than grass hills, mountains, and trees; they hold the links to our past and our future. Martie Simmons Ho-Chunk. The fifteen contributors are multi-generational writers, poets, activists, teachers, students, and public officials, each with a strong tie to the landscape and a particular story to tell.
